WEDNESDAY
NOVEMBER 10, 1954

Sunny day.

Had a walk and frequented a bookseller with success on Madame Tallien.

Betty and Ricardo Sitré came for a drink before lunch, and he gave me a copy of his OSS novel -- The Tap on the Left Shoulder. They returned a couple of hours later and drove us out to the Air France plane. (By a superhuman effort, I refrained from buying a 17th Century Cuenca rug at Linares.) We saw two people killed on the way in a motorcycle accident -- gruesome and ~~very~~ sad.

Took a super-Constellation, just arrived from South America. Reached Paris after a smooth 2-3/4 hour flight.
